

Meet Maxwell

Your employer uses Maxwell Health to help you choose and enroll in your benefits quickly and simply. Maxwell Health brings all your employer's benefit information together in one easy, online site that you can access at any time.

How does it work?

During open enrollment, your employer will invite you by email to log in to Maxwell and choose your benefits. You will:

Tell your employer a bit about yourself

Shop for benefits offered by your employer

Submit your enrollment, including any required forms (all electronically!)

Benefits when you need them

You can log into Maxwell any time throughout the year to let your employer know about updates to your personal information or any changes you may need to make to your benefits.

And with our easy-to-use mobile app, your benefit information is with you wherever you go. Access your member IDs plus copays, deductibles, and more 24/7/365, no paper necessary!

What Maxwell isn't

You'll see that Maxwell's technology brings together a lot of useful information about your benefits and the insurance carriers who administer them, but it's important to know that Maxwell is not an insurance carrier. Once you're enrolled, the insurance carriers are responsible for sending out ID cards and answering any questions about coverage or claims.
